It is rich in proteins, vitamins and antioxidants which help in maintaining scalp and hair health. Bhringraj is effective in promoting hair growth as well as reducing the greying of hair. This is due to the presence of various nutrients in Bhringraj that provide nourishment to the hair scalp.

BLACK SEED (Nigella sativa): Black seed hydrates and nourishes the hair. Due to its anti-bacterial, anti-inflammatory and anti-fungal properties, it will treat dandruff and itchy scalp. Black seed oil contains high amounts of thymoquinones, and historically, they have been used in the treatment of alopecia, hence black seed oil plays an important role in promotion of hair growth.

AMLA (Emblica officinalis): Amla oil is rich in Vitamin C, Vitamin E, and antioxidants, all of which might contribute to cellular regeneration and promote healthy circulation to the blood vessels in the scalp. These properties may help to facilitate hair and skin growth and boost the overall health of the scalp. Amla is known for its property of preventing and reversing pre mature graying of hair.
